He said this had manifested through sustained cooperation in areas of trade, energy, health, water, infrastructure, and agriculture among others.

Kenya and USA must widen and diversify commerce for their economic growth. This will entail trade and market expansion that benefits the two countries. These remarks were made by President William Ruto when he spoke during the Executive Business Roundtable and Investment Forum in Washington, D.C. where he attended the US-Africa Summit.

“The U.S.-Africa Summit presents the opportunity for us to trade more,” the President said. He reiterated that the two countries enjoy long-running ties of friendship and cooperation that offer a solid foundation for sustained economic relations.

He said for the world to defeat poverty and inequality, countries must escalate partnerships that spur investments. He said Kenya offers a geo-strategic address in the eastern part of Africa an additional compelling attraction to foreign businesses.

“Kenya has an elaborate and robust policy and legal framework that guide the conduct of trade and investment.” He said the Government will continue pursuing pro-business policies and incentives, a demonstration that Kenya is indeed an investment destination of choice.

In a separate engagement at the Thunderbird School of Global Management, the President addressed a roundtable of Government, private sector, academia, and innovators; interested in re-imagining the possibilities and engaging with the opportunities of the digital space in Kenya.

The President underscored his bold economic vision for an inclusive and shared prosperity. He added that there was need to secure jobs, held by lower-wage workers, who in Kenya's context are the 'Hustlers', majority of whom are women and youth, from various disruptions, especially the globalization and the 4th industrial revolution.

“The world is experiencing unprecedented disruption across many sectors. The Fourth Industrial Revolution as an era of human evolution, through technological advancement, is rapidly transforming how we live, learn, work, and communicate offering opportunities, while presenting new and significant challenges to our development,” said the President.

The President also said that Kenya had taken deliberate action to prioritize digital transformation through the expansion of universal access to broadband, embarking on the digitization of public services, supporting our robust start-up ecosystem, enhanced access to digital credit, and improved monetization of digital public goods by young entrepreneurs. The newly established State Department for Digital Economy is mandated to fast-track on this commitment.

He invited U.S. tech firms to take advantage of the opportunity presented in Kenya's plans for a digital superhighway, paperless and digital government, and the establishment of robust Data Hubs as the country continues to strengthen its position as the technology gateway for the larger Eastern and Central Africa region.

Cabinet Secretary Dr. Alfred Mutua presided over the signing of a MOU on Strategic Civil Nuclear Cooperation with USA Government’s Amb. Bonnie Denice Jenkins, Undersecretary for Arms Control and International Security, Department of State on December 15, 2022.

The MOU establishes basis for continued collaboration in the field of peaceful nuclear energy in which the participants engage multilaterally through the International Atomic Energy (IAEA) and other international organizations.

Kenya and South Africa open borders for their citizens

As from January 1, 2023, Kenyans enjoy visa-free travel to South Africa for a period of 90 days in a year. The announcement was made on November 9, 2022, in a joint press briefing, by H.E. Dr. William Samoei Ruto and H.E. Cyril Ramaphosa, President of South Africa.

The reciprocal arrangement between the two countries is a concrete demonstration of the deep bonds of friendship and a commitment to nurture closer ties.

Kenya and South Africa share strong bonds of friendship, anchored on mutual respect, common values and solidarity not only on issues of bilateral concern, but also on regional, and international matters.

The conclusion on the visa exemption further reflects conscious efforts and political good will by leaders of the two countries to eliminate any barriers to building greater business, cultural and communal relationships. It is the recognition that easier movement of people will promote integration and Pan-Africanism as envisioned in the African Union Free Movement of Persons Protocol of 2018.

Trade and Economic Cooperation remains a key pillar of Kenya's bilateral relations with South Africa. Kenya is among South Africa's leading trading partners in Africa.

The new policy complimented by the already existing Strategic Partnership Framework between South African Airways and Kenya Airways will not only facilitate tourism exchanges but also boost trade and investment.

At the time of the announcement, President Cyril Ramaphosa was in Kenya for his first official trip to the country from November 8 - 9, 2022 at the invitation of President Ruto.

Happening two months after Kenya's 2022 general-election and barely a year after another successful State Visit to South Africa by former President Uhuru Kenyatta in November 2021, the reciprocal State Visit was an important statement of the will to maintain and deepen the sound and steady relations through high-level visits and diplomatic exchanges.

During the November 2022 State Visit, Kenya and South Africa signed three (3) Memoranda of Understanding (MOUs) and one (1) Agreement on: Cooperation in the Field of Correctional Services; Cooperation in the Field of Housing and Human Settlement; Cooperation between the Kenya School of Government and the South Africa National School of Government; and an Agreement on Audio Visual Co-Production. This is in addition to eight other legal instruments signed in November 2021.

The signed Agreements and several others under negotiation cover the wide scope of cooperation and a deep determination by the two countries to elevate the nature and level of relationship.

Kenya seeks to deepen the new chapter of engagement with the South African people under the visa free regime.

Kenya participated in the Ministerial meeting of the African Union Committee of Ten (C10) Heads of State and Governments on the reforms of the United Nations Security Council, held in Brazzaville, Republic of Congo on 11 and 12 January 2023.

The Ministerial meeting was held on the request of the President of the Republic of Sierra Leone who is the Coordinator of the C10, and hosted by the President of the Republic of Congo.

Kenya's Foreign and Diaspora Affairs Cabinet Secretary, Dr. Alfred Mutua was represented in the meeting by Amb. Susan Mwangi, Director-General, Multilateral, International Affairs and UNON, who led a delegation comprising of officials from Permanent Mission of Kenya to New York and Addis Ababa.

The focus of the meeting was to assess the progress made by the C10 in the negotiation process at the Intergovernmental Negotiations (IGN) on United Nations Security Reforms. In this regard review the efforts made to promote the Common African Position (CAP) that calls for the Continent to be allocated two Permanent seats and increase the non-permanent representation to five seats at the UN Security Council as espoused in the Ezulwini consensus and the Sirte Declaration.

In a speech read by Amb. Mwangi, CS Mutua urged the C10 Ministers to address the issues of historical injustices on Africa. He noted that Africa's peace and security matters compose the bulk of the Security Council Agenda and urged the Ministers to come up with recommendations that will give Africa a voice.

Thanking the C10 Ministers for continued commitment and collaboration in the efforts to reform the UN Security Council, CS Mutua applauded the African Permanent Representatives based in New York for the continued engagement with Member States and interest groups to defend, popularise and restate the Common African Position, which has led to expression of broad support towards the CAP.

"While the broad support for CAP is encouraging, we still have a long way to go, we must keep the momentum going," the CS stated.

He added, "we must leverage on the current geopolitics to build and gain support for Africa's quest for two permanent seats and five non-permanent seats in the security council."

The CS said Kenya's two-year tenure at the security council, working together with the members demonstrated that Africa is ready to resolve Africa's issues with African solutions and is able to obtain consensus with other elected members to articulate and defend Africa's interests.

During the deliberations, Kenya asked the Committee to reflect on the following; - build consensus particularly on correcting the historical injustice including Africa's historical exclusion and the extent of attention the Council pays to its conflicts; push for substantive and procedural reforms of working methods of the Security Council; consider how to empower Ambassadors to continue defending and broadening support for the Common African Position; and build political momentum at the African Heads of State and Government, and Foreign Ministerial levels by ensuring Africa's common position on Security Council reforms.

The Ministers called for heightened engagements at all levels including by Heads of State, Ministers and Permanent Representatives on lobbying for the Common African position.

The outcomes of the meeting document will inform the decisions of the Heads of State and Government during the 36th Ordinary Session of the African Union Assembly in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia in February 2023.
